HEROES & HOPE 2023

RASHEDA KAMARIA WILLIAMS
Chief Empowering Officer
Empowered Flower Girl

"I want young people and those who work with them to live above life's drama so they can make a powerful difference in the world. It is my passion and purpose to help others realize their power and use it for good. Being a mentor has transformed my life. I am proud of titles like college graduate, social entrepreneur and others. But nothing incites pride quite like being a mentor!"

For more than a decade, Rasheda has been committed to making a difference in the lives of women and children in communities throughout southeast Michigan and beyond as a mentor, speaker, and workshop facilitator.

KHARY K. TURNER

Executive Director
Coleman A. Young Foundation

"I am rewarded by the growth of Detroit's youth. I am privileged to be a servant. I am blessed to be a role model of adulthood. I believe that, when we are gone, people will remember how we made them feel, more than what we did. My life and career give me daily opportunities to help people feel better about their own lives."

As leader of the Coleman A. Young Foundation, Khary's mission is to develop leadership among Detroit's youth through college scholarships, mentoring, and other supports for personal growth and development.

City of Detroit
Founder and Director
Norwest Gallery of Art

"I strive to give my community the opportunities that were not available to me when I was an inspiring artist. It is important to share resources that empower people to excel and achieve their dreams. The overall effect will only advance our community as a whole."

Asia is the founder, director, and chief curator of Norwest Gallery of Art on Detroit's Northwest side. Most recently, Asia opened Womxnhouse Detroit, an artist and curatorial residency for women of color. The studio and exhibition space located in her childhood home highlights women artists from Detroit and abroad whose work speaks to the female experience.

"Our communities and neighborhoods are the cradle of the Black experience. For that reason, I choose to spend the best of my time, my talents, and my resources, investing in the people and places that make Black culture what it is today. Detroit and other Black majority cities across the United States are iconic in their model expressions of Black power. Our young people, our families, and our elders are essential to us remaining strong. We are better together. For that reason, building, educating, and resourcing the culture is imperative. I'll keep moving that needle forward for Detroit for as long as I can."

Dexter serves as the president of the Black Legacy Advancement Coalition, a movement that builds Black power by providing education and resources that uplift our communities.

NOTES

A full-length portrait of a Black man with a beard and mustache, smiling. He is wearing a light tan suit, a light blue shirt, and a patterned tie. He stands on a concrete sidewalk next to a green lawn. In the background, there is a blue house with white trim and a porch, and a green house with a turret. A red fire hydrant is visible on the lawn to the right.

JOHN J. F. THORNE
Executive Director
Detroit Catholic Pastoral Alliance

"To me hope is a faith word. It causes us to know that there is more than what we see or experience now. Hope is the expectation that I have, that greater is still to come from us as individuals and from the city as a whole."

Work in the community is never about the "I" but about the "we." Community development is about helping people to create systemic change in the community where they live, so they can thrive."

As a people person, John has given his life in service to others and has served in many capacities including Campus Minister and Teacher (U of D Jesuit); Pastoral Associate (Sacred Heart Church); and Director of Black Catholic Ministry (Archdiocese of Detroit).

THE JAMES H. COLE LEGACY FOUNDATION

Making a difference every day.

The James H. Cole Legacy Foundation, established during our centennial year, celebrates heroes in our community who are making a difference every day. The individuals featured in this year's calendar truly take this mission to heart.

From mentoring women and children, to being an arts advocate for BIPOC women, to encouraging health and wellness as a lifestyle, these individuals are real heroes and we thank them for their daily dedication to serving their community members.

We're proud to honor these 2023 Detroit heroes.

As our heroes have offered their support, so have we. We're serving our community through our Legacy Foundation and the Stevie Award winning "Love Thy Neighbor" initiative. We've partnered with other nonprofit organizations to:

- Sponsor a room in a new Scholars Center called the Cole Legacy Foundation Innovation Lab, which offers scholars the space to create, design, and develop their own ideas, while exposing them to new learning techniques and opportunities
- Offer a monetary gift and dedicated radio promo to everyday citizens who have gone above and beyond to support their community as a thank you for their local efforts for our "12 Days of Giving" initiative
- Host a relief effort where 500 food donation boxes were distributed to community members, several organizations, and neighbors of our Grand Blvd. location

Each of the individuals featured in this year's calendar have been chosen because of the impact they have made on their community. They are the embodiment of Hope and of Heroes, sharing their passions and talents to enrich our world and improve our society. They make a difference each day and we thank them.
